

Jeff Silberman

Written by Rich Triplets

Sunday, 26 August 2012 23:53

Jeff Silberman began his career as an entertainment attorney representing clients in the motion picture and television industries as well as Pulitzer-nominated and bestselling authors. He joined The Literary Group International in 2010, and represents a wide range of authors, from celebrities and athletes, to novelists and neuroscientists, journalists and professors, to gangsters and military veterans. He has even recently expanded his list to include monkeys and honey badgers. Jeff has a wide range of interests and clients. He is always interested in authors who have something to say and projects that inform, inspire, entertain, expose, educate, move, or are just plain fun. He welcomes all forms of fiction and non-fiction, excluding screenplays. Email him at jsilberman@theliterarygroup.com